WES ☞ Die by the gun
Johnstone, William W. LP-5408
Dewey 'Mac' McKenzie is wanted for a killing he didn't commit. He saved his hide once by signing on as a cattle drive chuckwagon cook and bolting the territories. Turned out Mac was as good at fixing vittles as he was at dodging bullets. But Mac's enemies are hungry for more, and they've hired a gang of ruthless killers to turn up the heat. Mac's only hope is to join another cattle drive on the Goodnight-Loving Trail, deep in New Mexico Territory. The journey ahead is even deadlier than the hired guns behind him. His trail boss is an ornery cuss. His crew mate is the owner's spoiled son. And the route is overrun with kill-crazy rustlers and bloodthirsty Comanche.

A Rebel doctor fighting for justice in the aftermath of the Civil War, Samuel Knight, with his home seized and his wife forced to marry another man, uses his thirst for revenge and his surgical precision to take back what belongs to him.

On the run for his life, Dewey "Mac" McKenzie talks his way onto a cattle drive heading west as a chuckwagon cook and puts his newfound culinary skills to good use on a dangerous trail rife with rustlers, hostile Indians, bad weather, deadly stampedes and the ultimate showdown with the man who framed him for murder.

In the aftermath of the Civil War, Morgan Garrett heads west in search of work and a new start. Neither comes easy for a man burdened with a lame arm as a reminder of the lost war. With winter approaching, he finds work, and trouble, in Crossrock, Texas, a small town dying under the boot-heel of hard case Brad Decker. Soon Garrett finds himself headed for a showdown with only a single ally: a former Union soldier. Two men who once fought against each other are now forced to stand together. And not all will survive the cruelest winter in the town's history.
